HONEY BALENCIAGA

Teen Vogue

Twenty-two years later, Honey would vogue alongside Beyoncé on the Renaissance World Tour, helping Queen Bey highlight the queer roots of her genre-bending album, Renaissance. On and off stage, Honey was enkindling her own movement, inspired to pay flowers to her own roots and unexplored dimensions. As she grows as a person and performer, she's expanding her own concept of who she can be and what she can do. She might even be falling out of love with voguing.

"I think the reason for that is," she says, "I'm falling in love with so many different fields of creativity and artistry where it's like, vogue is not the only place where I could put my creativity." Honey Gonzales is ready for her own Act II. Honey sat down with Teen Vogue to discuss her career journey, working with Beyoncé, and more.

ELLA SNYDER

I'm Ella Snyder and I'm from Boston, Massachusetts

What are you most proud of?

I am most proud of the community I've found among my trans brothers and sisters, and the career I've built for myself as a trans woman. I'm especially proud of the connections I've made within the community through my career.

What support systems have been most helpful to you?

The most helpful support systems for me have been my parents. They have been incredibly uplifting and supportive, and I couldn't be more grateful to them.

How do you take care of your mental and emotional well being in the process?

In this process, it's crucial to prioritize your emotional and physical well-being. My biggest piece of advice is to set boundaries for yourself and feel comfortable saying no when needed – whether it's declining activities or situations that don't align with your comfort. Setting boundaries is essential for self-protection.

WILLA DEVEREUX

My name is Willa Devereux and I'm from Upstate New York.

What does gender euphoria mean to you and when do you feel it most? Gender euphoria is feeling the most cunt, the most pretty, when you're not thinking about how you look. I feel the most feminine when I eat sushi; when the wind hits my hair just right as I walk down the street; when I wear tiny watches; when I receive compliments from chic older women.

If you could have a conversation with your past self, what would you say? I would say, start hormones immediately.

What support systems have been most helpful to you? My family has been my biggest support system. I'm really lucky to have been in a family where I was never questioned and always accepted for what I wanted to do. I never felt ashamed of who I am.

- Galore Magazine

Talk to us about how you started dancing.
I got into musical theater and realized that I loved dancing amongst learning and loving theater/acting. I told myself I should just add it to my repertoire.

Who are your Queer heroes?
My top hero is Lady Gaga. I just saw her perform at Namacolin and I cried my eyes out. I grew up on a different Gaga, so seeing her do jazz renditions is beautifully refreshing. It's amazing to see how her talent always evolves and changes. You can tell she has a lot of influence on me.

If we were to spend a day with you in NYC, where are we having lunch, dinner and partying?
If it were on a Monday I would do Lunch at Cafeteria, Dinner at Ceconi's, and partying at midnight for OTA at 3 Dollar Bill!

This is our pride issue. What are you most proud of?
Myself. I'm gay & I ate it so bad this year! Broke barriers! Yay me! Thank you, God!

You have worked with a ton of fashion brands from Fendi to Coach. Have you ever thought of making your own brand?
I've absolutely given it some thought but I'm taking my time with the fashion world. I don't wanna rush into anything.
